WELCOME to the Annual Meeting of the ADEE

Dear Colleagues and Friends,

It is our great pleasure and privilege to host the 9th Annual Meeting of the ADEE here in Greece and to welcome all of you from almost every corner of Europe here the in "center of the earth" where the small village of Delphi is located.

We have organized a meeting which we hope will be a stimulating one for the European Dental Educators. The general topic of this meeting dealing with "the impact of prevention on the dental curriculum" provides a sound basis for elaborate, detailed and fruitful discussions among people who have different experience in various Dental Schools and many countries of Europe. Prevention is a very important aspect of modern dental practice and it should have a prominent role in "the making" of the young dentist during his studies in the Dental School. There are many ways to achieve this goal and, even more important, there are many problems related to the practical and effective implication of a modern philosophy in teaching prevention in the dental curriculum.

It is our sincere hope that the serene and spiritual setting of Delphi will prove to be an ideal environment for exchanging ideas on and offering valuable solutions to there difficult problems, which all of us face during our daily educational activities!

We wish you a very successful stimulating and constructive ADEE meeting, combined with a very pleasant stay in Delphi.

The Organizing Committee
